Coach's Corner – Compassion and Understanding

Hello friends and family of MCS,

As September comes to an end, we approach a very important time of year to honour the indigenous survivors of residential schools and the children who never came home. Because the National day for Truth and Reconciliation falls on the weekend, we will be observing this day as a school together on Monday, October 2. If possible, please remember to have your children come to school in orange as a way to recognize the significance of this day.

At Milton Christian School, we want to help students across grade levels, through age-appropriate discussions, understand the meaning of this day. Truth, reconciliation, and justice are key values of our faith that we want to model after Christ's example. I look forward to the conversations this day will spark and the learning that we can foster through compassion and understanding.

Blessings,

Mr. Martin

Grade 5 learned about the First Nations people who lived at Crawford Lake. They played lacrosse, explored long houses, and learned about artifacts that help tell the story of history.

Grade 8 exploring the forces we have learned about in science, at Mill Pond and the Park.

Thank you for reading the Connector!
